

Here is the most handsome man in the world (according to science)

We admit it, we looked for photos of him from the back to maintain the mystery. In vain. You have no doubt recognized that Robert Pattinson is the most handsome man in the world. If Twilight fans were already convinced of this, it's now scientifically proven.

The 33-year-old actor approaches physical perfection according to what is called the "golden ratio", this harmonious relationship between the parts and the whole so dear to Renaissance painters. Today, it's not Dürer, but Dr. Julian De Silva, a cosmetic surgeon, who developed an equation based on Phi, tells us Grazia .

After analyzing the shape of the face, forehead, nose, lips, chin, and the position of the eyes of most famous people, Robert Pattinson displays the score of 92.15%. Henry Cavill aka Geralt de Riv in The Witcher (91.64%) and Bradley Cooper (91.08%) complete the podium. We also find Brad Pitt, Idris Elba or Hugh Jackman, but not Johnny Depp or Leonardo DiCaprio. For women, it was Bella Hadid who styled everyone at the post with a rate of 94.35%.

